

Why do I have to figure out the net emissions increase for a project?

The net emissions increase is used to determine whether the project is, in fact, subject to PSD permitting. If the project is subject to PSD permitting, the net emissions increase is then used to estimate the ambient air quality impacts of the project.